NANCY HENDERSON

Nancy Henderson lives and writes in Sandy Creek, N.Y. She writes Paranormal and Historical romances for Champagne Books and Linden Bay Romance Publishers. When she’s not stumbling through edits or conjuring up plots for the crazy characters living inside her head, she can be found lurking in bookstores or watching sappy movies. You can keep up with her latest releases by visiting her website: www.nancyhenderson.com.

North Country native Annette Farrell has been sewing and crafting for over 30 years. Some of her fondest memories as a child are of her grandmother sewing and making items for family and friends.

Today Annette carries on her grandmother’s memory with Labor of Love Gifts & Craft.

Handmade items including cozy fleece wear for kids/adult pillows, and more are carefully made with labor of love in every stitch.

Annette also specializes in making glass boxes, wreaths, dolls and kitchen angels which make unique gifts for family and friends. Annette gladly takes special orders for any of her items. She can be contacted by email:

a.Farrell.1960@gmail.com.

No order is too Big or Small when it’s a Labor of Love!

TUG HILL GUITAR & MANDOLIN Custom-Built Stringed Instruments

Pieter D. Gaskin is a Luthier and Hobbyist, born and raised in Adams Center, N.Y. He is also a seasoned musician, having played bass guitar since age 13. Three years later, he built his first instrument from a kit. Since then, Pieter has dreamed of creating one-of-a-kind instruments of his own. He is a passionate worker and determined learner, always looking for new ways to expand his already impressive knowledge of music and woodworking.

Pieter is learning to play mandolin, and has designed two different styles that he is in process of building. Recently he was commissioned to custom-build a ukulele for a local musician, It is a project that would never have crossed his mind otherwise, but Pieter was up to the challenge. Much of what drives Pieter's creativity is that he is genuinely interested in learning what his customers want. He listens to their ideas and takes notes on their wants and needs. He then strives to create a unique instrument that incorporates all the desired qualities. His perfectionism, imagination, and skilled hands combined with a lifelong love of Music, are sure to earn Pieter Gaskin the respect of stringed instrument players everywhere.
